Disclosure Consent Declaration

If you choose to use TeleFile to file both your state return and your federal return at the same time on one telephone call, you must first consent to share your federal information with the state. The IRS may then share with the state all of the federal information needed for the filing of your state return. The state may use this information in the same way it uses information provided on a paper return.

The telephone message will tell you how to do the consent during the call using the "Disclosure Consent Declaration". You will be asked to use the IRS Customer Service Number in the IRS tax package to authorize the sharing of information. Once you have agreed to share the information, you may not cancel the agreement.
